Wonderland.

"Canadian alt pop quartet Valley have been perfecting their craft. Their uplifting, immersive approach is undeniable and eye-catching, with their recent run of releases projecting the band into newfound heights."

"The melancholic anthem sees the band at their dazzling best, with stunning vocals and consuming instrumentation drawing the listener into the immersive soundscape."

"...the latest example of Valley's star power and endless potential acclaim."

THE RODEO

"The title of this song kind of sounds like something passive aggressive you'd write in an ex's yearbook at the end of a school year, right? That said, Valley's new single is about as poppy as sad-pop gets. In it, they reference a 'sad song at the end of our movie' and honestly, that's the whole vibe right there."
